

December 17, 2012

Fun in Numbers, a platform for pervasive games and interactive installations developed by RU1, was chosen as one of the success stories in academic research by the Greek Ministry of Education. A workshop took place at the building of the Ministry on Monday, December 17, 2012, where the chosen teams were awarded and presented their results to a wide audience. More details regarding the workshop can be found on the following link.
